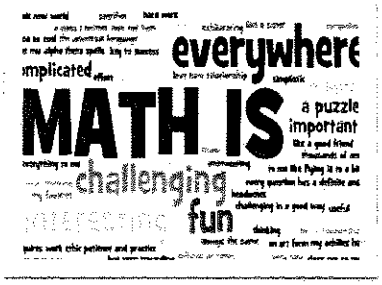
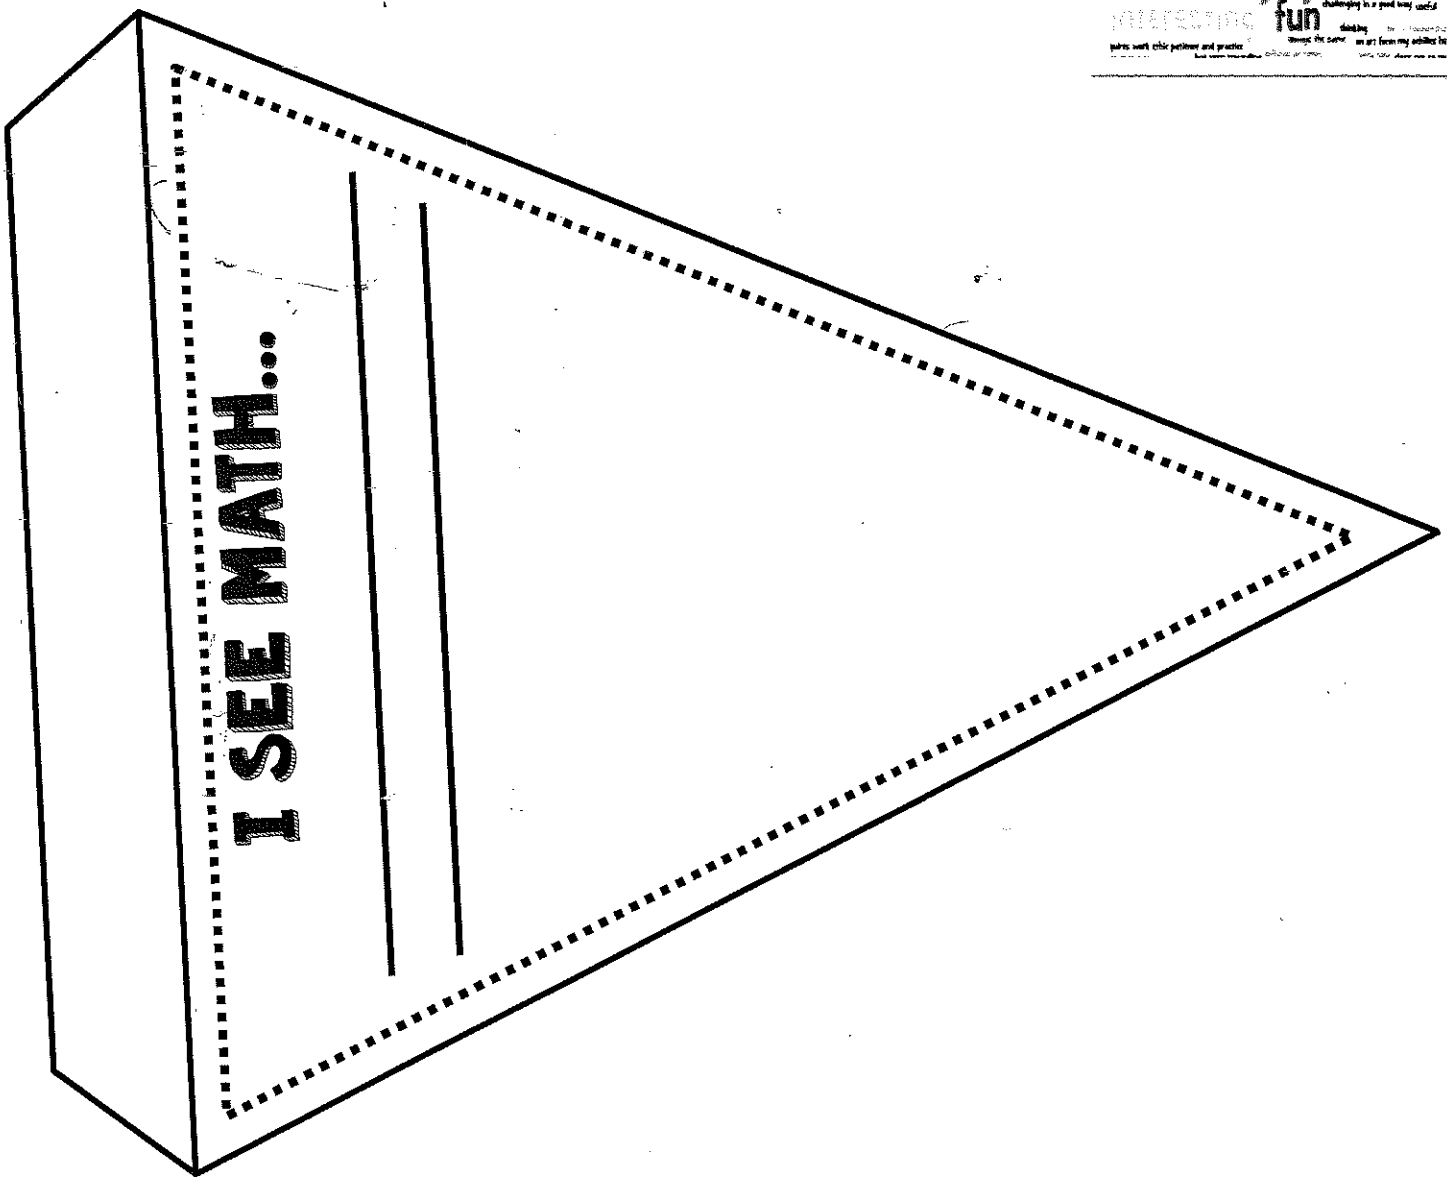
Math is Everywhere

Math really is everywhere! You probably used math everyday over the summer without even realizing it. Take a few moments to brainstorm a time, place, or situation where you saw or used math in the real world over the summer. Write it on the pennant. Use the remaining space to provide a picture of what you described at the top. You may draw the pictures, use the computer, or use magazines. Be sure to be creative and use your imagination!!!

Criteria for Success:




- Write about how you used or saw math in the real world over the summer.
- Illustrate the way that you used math over the summer.
- Your pictures must be colorful and neat.
- Be creative!!!
- Cut your pennant out. Don't forget to put your name on it.
